

Reclamation

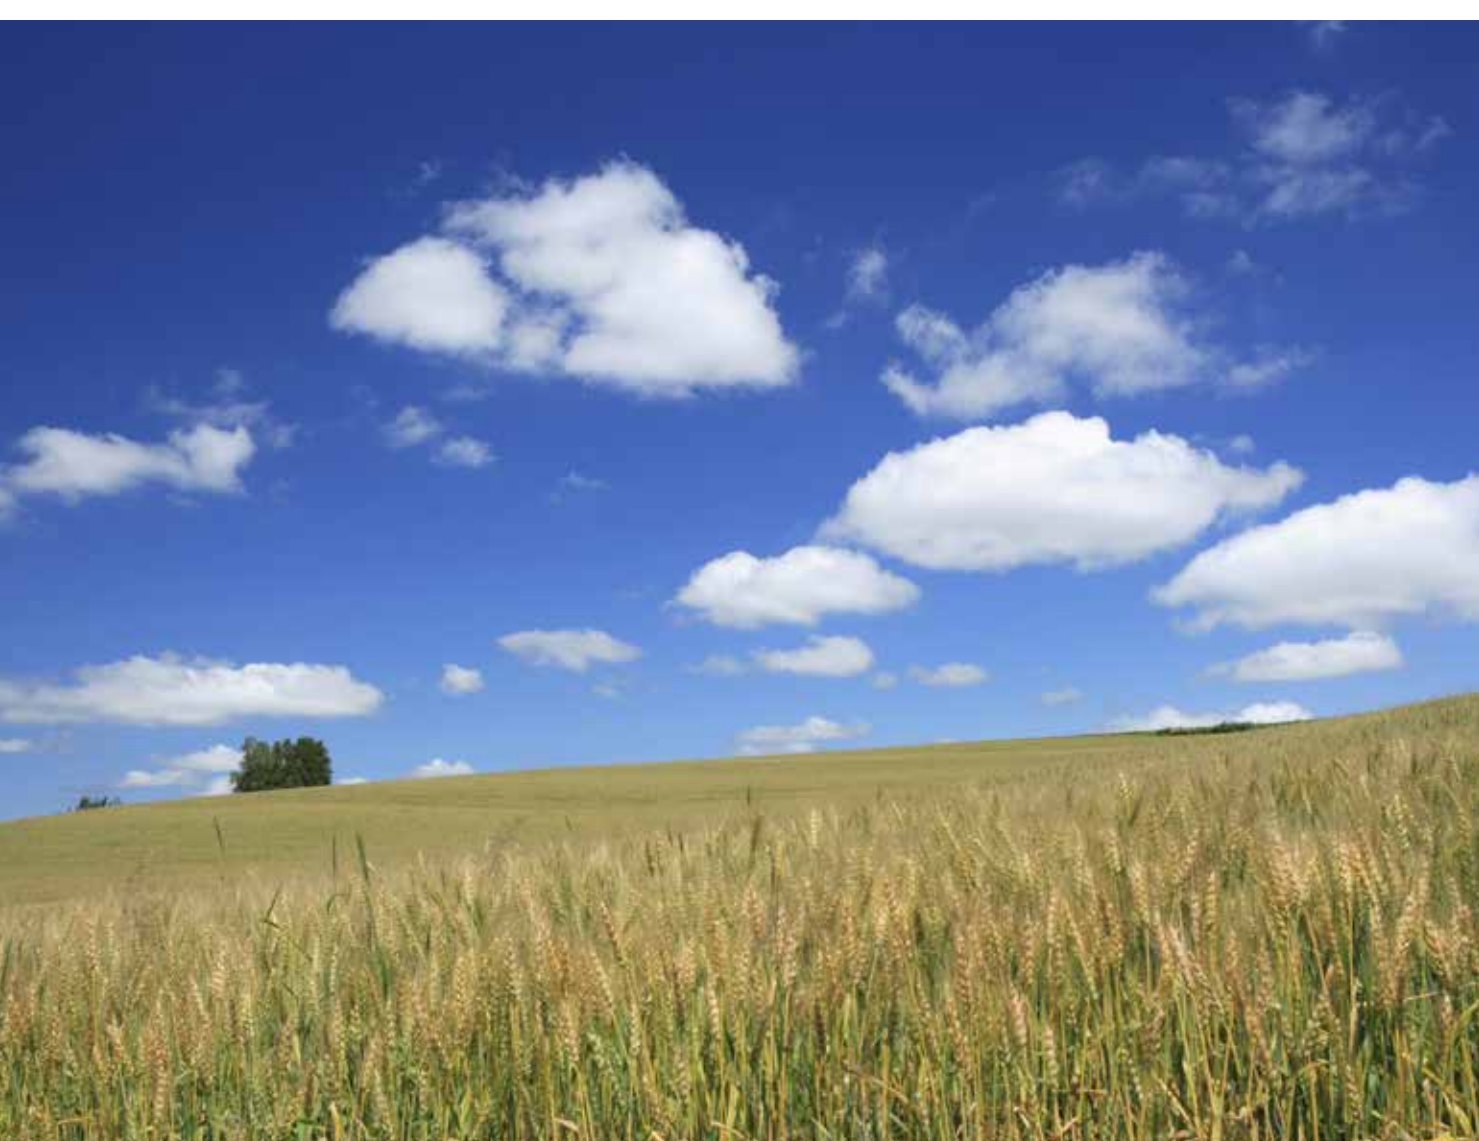

Reclamation is the final step before the site is returned to the community. This includes contouring soils and re-vegetation. There are a variety of options for end land use of a site, they include include forested, cultivated, and grasslands.

Imperial and the Four Nations are working together to determine the end land use of each site.

The Four Nations land preference will be recorded in a checklist that incorporates traditional knowledge and identifies infrastructure to remain in place.

Return lease to Nations

Once the land has been restored to the satisfaction of the Four Nations, an application will be submitted to IOGC for final review and approval to release the site back to the community.
