

Assessment

Phase I Environmental Site Assessment

The purpose of the Phase I ESA is to gather historical information through interviews (residents and operators), historical documents, and site reconnaissance.

Phase II Environmental Site Assessment

A Phase II ESA further investigates areas of potential environmental concern. Soil and groundwater samples are collected through various methods such as test pitting, bore-hole drilling, and groundwater monitoring.